

This is an essay that I LITERALLY had to open up a DICTIONARY to write. Hiya! My name is Marcus! I'm in the 4th grade at Fort Howard Elementary School! My favorite book of all time is: Diary of a Wimpy Kid: Diper Överlode (pronounced "Diaper Overload") , and yes, that IS how it's spelled.

It's the best book in the series, and may even be the BEST BOOK OF ALL TIME! Created by our lord and savior Jeff Kinney in 2022.

The reason he spelled it "Diper Overlode" is actually a reference to the first book when Greg states that if Rodrick knew how "Loded Diper" would actually be spelled, it'd be complete news to him. And because "Loded Diper" is misspelled, it just made sense to (purposely) misspell Diaper Overload as "Diper Overlode".

My favorite part is when Rodrick & his band enter the contest to get a new van, in which they end up winning, but scratch the van a few pages later.

Events like Give-a-Kid-a-Book are great because they give you books to read at home. Speaking of which, do I think kids should read at home?

Yeah, I think kids should read at home because it helps them project thoughts (especially the books with no pictures).

Reading at home is also fun! You can read books about anything you like, like Sonic, or something girly (I personally read Diary of a Wimpy Kid.) Plus, reading at home gives me more time to read Diary of a Wimpy Kid: Diper Överlöde!

In conclusion, when you read, you can imagine what it would be like to be the main character in the story. It's like going on an adventure without leaving the couch.
